

It's a dark and stormy night.

The moon is full. You are home alone, with a looming deadline and a feeling of dread as you realize, "I have to write this—I have to write this research paper tonight!" You start to panic. Your palms become sweaty. And then suddenly you remember the one thing that can save you. You quickly grab your laptop and, with fingers trembling, log on to your library's website to find all of our online resources that will get you through this night. Your fear and misery subside as you realize, "Hey, I can do this!"

Save yourself! Ask your librarian or teacher how to access Infobase's valuable online resources to help with research papers, projects, homework, and more.
